Sen. Jacob K. Javits (R-N. Y.) insisted yesterday that the campaign trip of President Kennedy to New York would not change the November election results.

Javits spoke on the radio program Let's Find Out as he and most of the politicians stumped all over the state in search of votes.

"I don't think the visit will make any material change in the situation, but it's to be expected that it will have some effect," Javits said.

Sees Few Votes in Cuban Deal

Javits knocked down the report that his Democratic opponent, James B. Donovan, would get many votes if he arranges the release of Cuban prisoners of war.

Both Javits and Donovan insisted that the people of the state know them well.

Javits said: "There is no need to offset his (Kennedy) visit with one by former President Eisenhower. I don't think life is made as mechanical as that. I think the people know me pretty well, and I think they will be able to appraise the situation very well."

Donovan said: "The people of this state know my record."

He Will Not Eat Blintzes

He said he feels he will have plenty of time to conduct a "modern" campaign, with emphasis on newspapers, television and radio, rather than "eating blintzes" at Coney Island.

During his spectacular victory in 1958 Gov. Rockefeller ate dozens of blintzes and any other food he could get his hands on while posing for pictures.

Questioned about federal aid to education, especially parochial schools, Donovan said he wanted officials to explore every constitutional way to give "aid to the school children" without worrying about what school they attended.

Republican Nixes Sales Tax

He also rejected the suggestion that he was known in the state only because of his part in the Cuban negotiations and the exchange of Russian spy Rudolph Abel for U-2 pilot Francis Gary Powers.

John P. Lomenzo, GOP candidate for controller, declared that the state should not impose a sales tax.

Robert Morgenthau, Democratic candidate for governor has accused Rockefeller of secretly planning such a tax for next year. The Governor has denied it.

Yesterday Morgenthau did his campaigning upstate.
